-- The MAILING DATE of this communication appears on the cover sheet with the correspondence address --

Period for Reply

A SHORTENED STATUTORY PERIOD FOR REPLY IS SET TO EXPIRE 3 MONTH(S) OR THIRTY (30) DAYS, WHICHEVER IS LONGER, FROM THE MAILING DATE OF THIS COMMUNICATION.

- Extensions of time may be available under the provisions of 37 CFR 1.136(a). In no event, however, may a reply be timely filed after SIX (6) MONTHS from the mailing date of this communication.
- If NO period for reply is specified above, the maximum statutory period will apply and will expire SIX (6) MONTHS from the mailing date of this communication.
- Failure to reply within the set or extended period for reply will, by statute, cause the application to become ABANDONED (35 U.S.C. § 133). Any reply received by the Office later than three months after the mailing date of this communication, even if timely filed, may reduce any earned patent term adjustment. See 37 CFR 1.704(b).

Art Unit: 1745

1. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

2. This application currently names joint inventors. In considering patentability of the claims under 35 U.S.C. 103(a), the examiner presumes that the subject matter of the various claims was commonly owned at the time any inventions covered therein were made absent any evidence to the contrary. Applicant is advised of the obligation under 37 CFR 1.56 to point out the inventor and invention dates of each claim that was not commonly owned at the time a later invention was made in order for the examiner to consider the applicability of 35 U.S.C. 103(c) and potential 35 U.S.C. 102(e), (f) or (g) prior art under 35 U.S.C. 103(a).

3. Claims 1-10 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Pendalwar et al.-US 5,716,421 (Pendalwar) with evidence shown by Sptonitz et al.-US 6,322,923 (Spotnitz) and Gies et al.-US 5,665,265. (Gies)

The above rejection was made in the December 15, 2004 Final Rejection, which rejection is incorporated in its entirety in this office action.

Applicant's arguments relating to the above rejection have all been considered but are not deemed persuasive. Applicant argues that it is no motivation to combine the above references together. This is not persuasive because all of the above references concern solid polymer batteries. To modify one of these batteries in one of these patents with element(s) of another battery in another of these patents is a straightforward substitution of no patentable moment.

Applicant argues that Pendalwar does not teach an electrolyte that has a thickness between 5 and 19 microns. The examiner has agreed with this point, however this is the reason the examiner has rejected the present claims on a combination of references with Pendalwar.

The applicant further argues that it would not have been obvious to have combined Spotnitz with Pendalwar. This is not convincing because if one of ordinary skill in this art would have had the Spotnitz patent available, it would have been obvious to have utilized the thickness of the electrolyte layer in Spotnitz in the battery of Pendalwar so that the battery could be used in small, micro environments.

A further argument by applicant is that Spotnitz does not teach a solid electrolyte of a thickness between 5 and 19 microns. The examiner respectfully disagrees. As stated in the above rejection, column 2, lines 35-37 of Spotnitz, a solid electrolyte of a thickness of 5-500 microns is taught and more preferably a range of 10-50 microns. This range encompasses applicant's range of 5-19 microns.

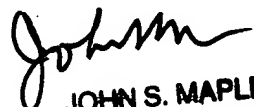

Applicant also argues that none of the references teach all of the claimed elements. This may be true, however, the examiner has not made a rejection based on only one reference. The examiner has rejected the claims based on a combination of the three references as outlined previously in this action.
